Introduction

Your Divine Appointment

“I was crying to the LORD with my voice,
And He answered me from His holy mountain”

—Psalm 3:4.

Have you been searching for marriage help? It’s not by chance, nor is it by coincidence, that you are reading this book. God has heard your cry for help in your marriage dilemma. He predestined this DIVINE APPOINTMENT to give you the hope that you so desperately need right now!

If you have been told that your marriage is hopeless or that without your spouse’s help your marriage cannot be restored, then this is the book you need. Read this over and over so you will begin to believe that God is MORE than able to restore ANY marriage, including YOURS!

We know and understand what you are going through since WE, and MANY others who have come to our ministry for help, have a restored marriage and family! No matter what others have told you, your marriage is NOT hopeless!! We KNOW, after twenty five years of ministry, that God is able to restore ANY marriage, even YOURS!

If you have been crying out to God for more help, someone who understands, then join our Internet Restoration Fellowship to help you see your marriage through to restoration during your rebuilding phase of your journey. Since beginning this fellowship, we have seen more marriages restored on a regular basis than we ever thought possible!

So, if you are really serious in your desire to restore your marriage, then our fellowship is the answer. For more information or to join, go to our website RMIEW.com. We would love for you to be a part of our Restoration Fellowship!

Who are we and what are we hoping to do?

Restore Ministries helps those who have found themselves in a hopeless situation: couples whose spouse is in adultery, has left, has filed for divorce, or any other seemingly impossible marital situation. These broken people have often sought help, but everyone (many times even their pastors) have told them their marriage was hopeless. However, we not only believe that no marriage is hopeless – regardless of the circumstances—we know they aren't. That's why we offer hope, help and encouragement through our website, our Restoration Fellowship, and a variety of resources including a variety of newsletters to spiritual feed and uplift you daily!

In 2001, Restoration Fellowship was birthed to minister more effectively to the needs of those seriously seeking restoration. Within a year the fellowship grew to over 400 committed members and increases daily with members from all over the world.

Restore Ministries has never sought advertising or paid for placement in search engines but has instead grown by word of mouth. We also take no support from anyone but the individuals themselves who are seeking restoration so that we are never told we must comprise sharing His full truths. Though often ostracized by the established church, because of those who have cried out to God for help when their own church, pastor, family and friends who offered them no hope or support, we have given them hope and we have become an oasis in the desert for the desperate, the hurting, the rejected.

Often accused of being extreme, radical, out-of-balance or legalistic, the message in all our resources is founded firmly on the Word of God only, encouraging those seeking restoration to live the message that Jesus proclaimed, beginning with the familiar Beatitudes.

RMI teaches the good news of God's Word to bring healing to the brokenhearted, comfort to those in pain, and freedom to prisoners of despondency and sin through the truth of His Word, giving them the hope that is "against all hope" through the Power of Jesus Christ, the Mighty Counselor and Good Shepherd.

Our site and our resources minister to the hurting all over the world with the intent of creating a deeper and more intimate walk with the Lord that results in the hurting healed, the bound freed, the naked clothed, the lost saved and broken marriages restored. We minister to women from more than 15 countries including Switzerland, Hong Kong, New Zealand, Sweden, Philippines, Brazil and Germany, with large followings in Australia, Canada, and Africa. Our books have been translated into Spanish, Portuguese, Tagalog (Filipino), Afrikaans, and French. Also Slovakian, Chinese, Russian, Italian and some Hindi.

Jesus said that you “will know them by their fruits” that’s why this book and all our By the Word of Their Testimony books are filled with testimonies of hopeless marriages that were restored, marriages that give glory to God and to the Power of His Word. Our WOTT books are growing at such a phenomenal rate that we were once unable to keep up with getting them published. Now we have a full team devoted to keeping up.

If you have any doubt about the validity of our ministry, you won’t after reading this and our other awesome books. Each will show you not only hopeless marriages that were restored, but more importantly, it will show you men and women who have been completely transformed into God-lovers and are now committed on-fire Christians, many of whom were saved through this ministry.

Below is a small sampling of the letters of gratitude that Restore Ministries has received. Please note when you read the letters that they give all the praise and glory to the Lord. This ministry was founded and continues to grow on the premise that “if He be lifted up, He will draw all men to Himself” and “the Lord will share His glory with no man.”

“Let Another Praise You” Proverbs 27:2

My situation apparently was not difficult once I saw what other women are going through. I started listening to the RYM book via YouTube and kept feeling sorry for all the woman whose spouses were cheating on them only to find out mine had fallen into that trap 2 months later. Yet, I was prepared to handle it the right way! I am still believing for my marriage, still waiting for his return, but I am confident that God's timing is perfect. I know Who I need to fix my eyes on so I can endure the storm until I reach the victory that God has already proclaimed!

Dear Lord, I have no words to express how much I love You! I started this journey feeling I didn't love You enough (I always think I can love you a lot more) and through this journey, You have allowed my soul to learn so much! Thank You for cleansing my heart, for taking away the stubborn behaviors I had and for healing many hearts around me through this journey You called me on. ~ From Beverly in Madagascar who is married

When I came here my marriage did not really exist. I mean I thought that for the rest of my life I was going to mourn and cry forever. I really hope that all women, more women, would find and go through these courses because they are God directed and ordained. When I found RMI, I prayed a lot for the Lord to guide me to understand, first to tell me whether I should fight or just accept what was going on and move on with my life. But instead, He blessed me with an entirely new phase of my life, where my heart is seeking the Lord every day. I don't have to fight because He fights for me. I don't need to stand, because He carries me. My life is completely new by the God's grace and these courses are what encouraged me to look for and want only Him.

Dear sister in Christ, no matter the torment, every day you have with the Lord, cherish it. Give Him control of your life, and soon the storm will pass. Soon you will learn to trust the Lord and peace will fill your life and everything will work out for good. I encourage you to follow the RJ because your new life awaits you. ~ From Rosa in El Salvador

I have longed to know and experience God as the Bible tells about. I had known for some time that I been called to ministry but ran. Do I believe my marriage is hopeless? No, because I believe God can do anything, but, yes, even now it looks hopeless. But He called me here and now I want to honor God with my marriage and be on the front line for God in support of families when He's done refining me for the work He's called me to. I was originally ok with divorce and then I encountered God the way I always dreamed, after finding you. At work one day shortly after my wife left, God began to chastise me for my behavior. I asked God to let me out of my marriage, but instead, he sent me to Romans 8:18, "For I consider that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory that is to be revealed to us." ~ From Kenyatta in Georgia, Western Asia

We put this book and all our Word of Their Testimony books together because we believe that as you spend some time reading these incredible and awesome testimonies of seemingly hopeless marriages that were miraculously restored, you will be encouraged and know without a doubt...

NOTHING IS IMPOSSIBLE WITH GOD!!

Nothing is Impossible with God!

“Looking at them, Jesus said,
‘With people it is impossible,
but not with God;
for all things are possible with God.’”

Mark 10:27

“And they overcame him because of the blood of the Lamb and because of the word of THEIR testimony, and they did not love their life even to death.” Rev. 12:11.

The following testimonies are filled with miracles of men and women who took God at His Word and believed that “nothing was impossible with God!” Those who have had the miracle of a restored marriage have several things in common. All “delighted themselves in the Lord” and He gave them “the desires of their heart.” All of them “hoped against hope” when their situation seemed hopeless.

All of them “fought the good fight” and “finished their course.” All of them were determined “not to be overcome with evil” but instead to “overcome evil with good.” All were willing to “bless their enemies” and to pray for them that “despitefully used and persecuted them.” All “turned the other cheek” and “walked the extra mile.” All realized that it was “God who removed lover and friend far from” them and it was God who “made them a loathing” to their spouse. All of them understood and believed that it is NOT the will of man (or woman) but the “will of God” who can “turn the heart” whichever way He chooses.

All refused to fight in “the flesh” but chose to battle “in the spirit.” None were concerned to protect themselves, but trusted themselves “to Him who judges righteously.” All of their trust was “in the Lord” because their trust was “the Lord.” All released their attorneys (if that was part of their testing) since they “would rather be wronged or defrauded.” All of them “got out of the way of wickedness” and “let the unbeliever leave” since they “were called to peace.” All refused to do “evil for evil or insult for insult.” All loved their spouse who may have been unfaithful because they knew that “love never fails.”

This is the same journey that the Lord took me on back in 1989. That year I made a promise to God that if He would restore my marriage to my husband, I would devote my life to telling others about Him and His desire and ability to restore ANY marriage no matter what the circumstances. The Lord was faithful and restored my marriage, suddenly, two years later after a divorce. (Yes! AFTER a divorce!) Now I faithfully, with the Lord's continued help, love, support, and guidance, spread the GOOD news that nothing—NOT A THING—is impossible with God!

It is important to know that our ministry was FOUNDED to help all those who were told by pastors and Christian friends that their situations were HOPELESS. Those who come to us for hope are facing a spouse who is deep in adultery, who has moved out (often in with the other man or woman who committed adultery with), who has already filed for divorce or whose divorce has gone through. 99% of those who come, come alone for help since their spouse is not interested in saving their marriage, but is desperately trying to get out. Over 95% claim that they are Christians and most are married to Christians.

Over half are in some type of Christian service and many of the men who are involved with other woman are pastors who have left not only their wife and children, but their church as well.

If you, or if someone you know, is facing devastation in their marriage, there is hope. Read these awesome testimonies that prove that God is MORE than able to restore ANY marriage—even YOURS!

“Trust God to Restore Your Parent's Marriage”

Today, I am excited to share the full testimony of my parents' marriage being restored—which I didn't realize until years later—laid the foundation for my own marriage being restored. The Lord led me to use one of our Marriage Restoration forms for my parents' restoration, filling it out just as anyone would who is submitting it for another person.

It is my hope and deepest desire that God will use this very special testimony to spark the hope in many of you, so we will soon witness and hear of more and more families being restored—grandparents together again for the sake of their grown children and grandchildren.

Please share this testimony and our new book, Trust God to Restore Your Parents' Marriage, with anyone and everyone that the Lord lays on your heart.

~ Erin

Erin, please let our readers know what your family's life was like when you first sought God to restore your parents' marriage so our readers understand just what a miracle this restoration is.

To be honest, I never really heard my parents fighting. Both my parents were brought up in wealthy families, so in high society, it was customary to keep your composure. My parents would always discuss things calmly, and if something became difficult, one or both would just walk away to gather their thoughts. So this is the way I was brought up.

Though they never fought, I never remember my parents being really close either, you know, the “lovey-dovey” kind of couple. Even though I didn’t really see much affection between them, because they always spoke kindly to each other and never spoke against the other, it was assumed (by me) that they did love each other. Maybe not “in love,” but they loved each other. They often took short honeymoons away, so for most of my growing up, they were a happy couple raising a big family.

As I said, I don’t remember hearing my parents ever argue, until right before they separated. Even then, it was just my mother who raised her voice. I was just out of high school, when my mom found a position running a tiny seaside beach resort, which, years later, I realized she wanted as a way to bless my father who loved to fish. His insistence that he would not move, I realize now, hurt my mother, so much that she went ahead and took the position—bringing my younger sister to live with her. When my mom left, my dad was totally at a loss. He had always been busy in his career in television and movies, as a cameraman, while my mom took care of the house and everything else. But I’m getting ahead of myself.

The fateful day when my parents separated began when my mother found the perfect opportunity, she thought. Running a tiny seaside establishment was, to her, a dream, but my father refused to be onboard. It took me years to understand that she was horribly hurt, because she’d taken the position for my father—so he could walk to the shore and go fishing—something he loved. Like all women, she did all she could to manipulate everything to get her way, ending with an ultimatum. She was going, whether he would go or not. I’m sure, like all married couples, each thought the other would come around, but neither did.

My mother moved, taking my youngest sister, and my father was left dumbfounded. Seeing my dad at such a loss: where to find an apartment, moving and turning on all the utilities, etc. etc., at his age, retired, was pitiful. Since we had always been close, when he shared his dilemma and loss with me, I offered to move in with him for exactly one year. I was in college, and I’d been living on my own, but I agreed, for a year, to share an apartment. During this one year, he learned to grocery shop and do all the other things he had always left to my mom.

Because I was living with my dad, I didn’t see my mom or my younger sister very often. We didn’t do the “family things” we used to do, and all of the holidays were horrible and strained. It was in the midst of all of this that I cried out to God to help me in my despair and my broken heart.

That year, and as each year ticked by, I couldn't help but want my parents together again. My siblings, sadly, did not agree with my desires. No one saw the ramifications of this, as my parents would soon reach their later years. I also felt cheated, since I hadn't yet married or started a family. I wanted my children to have their grandparents together when they went to visit them, just like my older siblings had. So I began asking the Lord, who I always had been close to, to show me what to do.

Erin, how did your parents' restoration actually begin?

It began slowly, as I followed what He began laying on my heart. It was simply this: if either of my parents said anything that was remotely kind or favorable in any way, shape or form about the other, I would pass it along to the other one. If there was anything negative said, I never, ever, repeated it to either one.

It might go something like this, when speaking to my mom, "Oh, funny thing, Dad just told me about how you used to go to the movies when you were first married. He'd sit with the baby, and for just 10¢ you'd walk down to see a movie. He said how much he'd been thinking about it lately." Or I'd say to my dad, "Mom mentioned how thankful she was when you..." and fill in something God reminded me. I just watched, as He would remind me of more and more positive or kind things that had been said that I was able to share with the other parent. This, looking back, was laying the foundation on which He was going to build.

How did God change the situation as you sought Him wholeheartedly for your parent's restoration?

The biggest changes happened with my father. After agreeing to share an apartment with him for a year, he began to change. One reason I hesitated living with my dad was due to my father's smoking, so when we were out looking for an apartment, he'd told me he'd only smoke outside, never in the house. A few times, I'd come home from classes, and as I was walking down the garden pathway, I would see only my father's arm outside holding his cigarette. As soon as he'd see me, he'd hop up and step outside. Yet, due to the inconvenience, coupled with the expense (He saw for the first time how much he was paying to smoke, because my mom no longer bought groceries.), it led him to stop smoking, cold turkey. God was beginning to work, but I still had no idea at the time.

Of course, I told my mother, “Oh, by the way, did I mention Dad stopped smoking?” and though she never said anything, I saw how happy it made my mom, and it got her attention.

What principles, from God's Word, Erin, did the Lord teach you during this trial?

Primarily that: nothing is impossible for Him. No matter what our heart’s desire, He will give us our desires—especially when it lines up with His Word. God doesn’t just want us to believe Him for our own marriages. I believe He wants us to believe Him for marriages that affect us and our children.

Due to how I was raised, praise GOD, I never once spoke to my parents with any sort of insubordinate attitude. It was not my place to tell them they needed to be together or to share any Bible principles with either of them. If I had, then I would have opened up all sorts of dangerous spiritual adversarial influences in an already dreadful situation.

“Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to heed than the fat of rams. For rebellion is as the sin of divination, and insubordination is as iniquity and idolatry” (1 Samuel 15:22,23).

Nor did I go to either of them with my woes or hurts about their breakup, because those tears didn’t belong to anyone but my Best Friend (I didn’t know He was my Husband at the time.) “Put my tears in Thy bottle; are they not in Thy book?” (Psalms 56:8). “Those who sow in tears shall reap with joyful shouting” (Psalms 126:5).

I cried as I looked to the future. I could see, as the years wore on, that my future would be totally different from what I had always thought it would be—all because my parents had separated. My older brothers and sisters were already married. They didn’t understand my loss, because when they were first married, each of them got to come “home” for holidays, and “both” their parents were excited to see their new baby or to hear about the house they had just bought.

For my younger sister and me, however, there was no “home,” since our parents lived apart. If that was not bad enough—there was always the added pressure of making sure you didn’t offend one parent when you spent time with the other.

In addition, there was something new to make it all so miserable—both of my parents had a sense of dependency on me, their sixth but very available adult child, instead of where it should have been—on each other! Again, looking to the future, I could see that, as they aged, I would need to be available more and more for them, because they were no longer living together. I could see financially that they would have double the expenses, and my mother would be forced to live at the poverty level, if they didn't combine their social security and my dad's pension.

After my year's commitment was up, my father moved into a tiny little cottage. He was content, but not really happy. He was friendly with everyone and kept busy visiting the library and his friends at different shops in his small town. Unlike my dad, however, without my father's stability, my mom moved regularly, which was especially hard on my younger sister. For years, my mother complained about her lack of freedom, so once separated, she was free to move about, and she took full advantage of it.

Once my parents were separated, the rest of our large family began to drift even farther apart. My closest brother moved to the other side of the world, to Japan, and my older sister moved from California to Minnesota, halfway across the country. Without our "family," it sounded appealing when my sister asked me to move to live by her and her growing family. It was while living there, in Minnesota, that I met and married my first husband, and it was where my oldest son, Dallas, was born. That's when my parents' separation really hit me! I wanted "grandparents" for my children—I wanted what I had always dreamed of. My son deserved what my nieces and nephews were blessed to have had. I knew that something had to be done; but what?

Dallas was six months old, when he met his grandparents for the first time. My mom met us at the airport, and later (because my parents were separated), I drove over to see my dad. I hated it all. I wanted them to be together, to talk together about how beautiful and wonderful my son was, just like I had heard them talk about my eleven nieces and nephews. I had been robbed.

That day, I was determined to do everything that I could to see them together again, for the sake of my children—their grandchildren.

What were the most difficult times that God helped you through, Erin?

It had to be when I flew to California with my first son to meet his grandparents, and, as I dreaded, I brought him to two different homes. It was probably then that my desires became much more intense, my yearning much deeper. I just knew God could do it, even though I was years away from reading the verse how “nothing was impossible,” when I sought God for my own impossible marriage to be restored.

Yet, I do believe that my own marriage, and this ministry, was founded on my desire to see my own parents restored. Thank God a million times over that neither my mom nor dad ever became involved with anyone else. I know for most of you that’s not the case; nevertheless, nothing is impossible, as we all know and have witnessed through the many Restored Marriage Testimonies!

Erin, what was the “turning point” of your parents’ restoration?

The turning point, not surprisingly (now that I know the principle that has led to 100% of all marriages restored for our men), happened during a crisis my mother was going through. My mother got injured on her job and had begun living with us. Then she moved in next door, but she was soon unable to return to work and was going to have to move. About this same time, one afternoon, I’d turned down the street at the end of our corner and saw a brand new adult living complex that had just put out the for rent sign, finished and ready for occupancy. My heart began beating wildly, because I sensed, “This is it!”

1 Kings 18:44, CEV: “After the seventh time the servant replied, ‘I see a small cloud coming this way. But it’s no bigger than a fist.’” I didn’t share my excitement with anyone, because I knew this sign was no bigger than a fist, and I didn’t want anyone to rattle my faith in what I just believed He could do and was about to do.

Not really knowing that the principle, “He leads me” (Psalm 23) was in the Bible, I’d begun letting my Best Friend (my now HH) lead me more than a dozen years before this. So it was easy to sense when to mention the new apartments to my mother, who became very excited, until she saw the cost on the brochure. “Oh, I could never afford that,” was her reply, to which I said, “But Dad could.” “Oh, he’d never go for that,” she said, and I replied, “Oh, are you kidding? He’d jump at the chance.” I assured her that there were two-bedroom units, since my father is very much a morning person and my mother a night-owl, which lessened this step after living apart for nine years!

I don’t believe that anything more was said. Instead, I believe I left that seed that He’d planted to be watered. Next, He led me to share everything with my father, but I know at least two weeks had passed and He was asking me to be patient. To wait.

Tell us HOW it happened, Erin? Did your father just walk in and say to your mom, “Let’s get back together?” Erin, did you suspect or could you tell your parents were close to being restored?

Yes, I could feel it was very close! It happened quite suddenly. I was visiting my father, and I sensed it was time to bring it up, so I told him I needed to get something from the car and came back in with the brochure. I handed it to him, “What’s this?” “It’s the new apartment building around the corner from our house. I showed it to Mom, and she’d love to move in there to stay living close to us. I’d love you to live closer to us, too, Dad. Unfortunately, mom can’t afford it, so I suggested you share an apartment with her. You could afford the rent for the both of you,” I said. My father replied quickly, “Oh, your mother would never agree to that,” and I was able to say honestly, “But I already mentioned it, and she’s all for it!”

Two weeks later, we moved both my parents into their brand new apartment around the corner from us! When we later moved from California to Florida a few years later, the enemy tried again to separate them, but I knew it was GOD who’d restored and the enemy would not win. My mom was quick to want to move with us, and, what was a shock to everyone, my father agreed to move to Florida, too—something everyone said was impossible! So we moved my parents along with us, when we moved across the country. My parents stayed together, until my father passed away, 14 years after God restored their marriage!

Would you recommend any of our resources in particular that helped you, Erin?

If you have parents that are separated or divorced, even if either or both has remarried, I would recommend reading How God Can and Will Restore Your Marriage, with your parents in mind, also, A Wise Woman and A Wise Man to understand God’s principles for each party involved. Be very sure, however, that you never share principles with either. If these books were available back when I was longing for my parents to be restored, I believe I might have shared the men’s RYM with my father, because he was the one I knew was still madly in love with my mother. And if I was studying A Wise Woman, I might have asked my mother to study it with me, for my sake, not hers.

Funny thing is, this was basically the way my mother changed from being a contentious woman! Like all of us, I’m sure she had no idea how the books and media had influenced how she began acting toward my father. It was during the years that I was just writing A Wise Woman, and my mother was the first to edit all my grammatical mistakes for me. One day, I handed her the manila envelope to edit, and when she slid it out, seeing it was “The Contentious Woman,” she said, “Oh, not this one again...I think I’ve edited it seven times!” That’s when I knew what He was doing!

My mother, bless her heart, had the opportunity to put what she learned into practice. When my father was bedridden, she was able to show him a “gentle and quiet spirit”—a wife who was loving and patient. The day he passed away, she was in praying with my father (who no longer was able to speak) and left to answer the door for the hospice nurse, who came back out of his room to say he’d passed away.

Would you be interested in helping encourage other women, Erin?

Yes, until the day I die. I hope that the new book I’m working on, Trust God to Restore Your Parents’ Marriage (I hope to have a chapter available each week for RF Members and our partners), will help many adult children.

Either way, Erin, what kind of encouragement would you like to leave women with, in conclusion?

No matter if it’s your parents, a sibling, a dear friend, a neighbor or a coworker, you can believe God for the impossible. Share this testimony with everyone you know who has parents who are living apart. Parents and grandparents should be living together, under one roof, giving glory to GOD!!!!!!

My parents both have since passed away: my father in June 1995 and my mother five years later in April 2000. But I can tell you that God performed a miracle, and they lived the last years of their lives—TOGETHER!! My parents were together for another 14 years—59 years total! All but my youngest daughter experienced “grandparents together.” (My father passed away before I told him I was expecting my seventh baby.)

And remember, not only did God restore my parents’ marriage for me, but He gave my mother the opportunity to be the kind of wife I knew she had always wanted to be, during the last year of my father’s life! I saw the contentious wife totally gone and replaced with a “gentle and quiet” spirited mother—a compassionate, patient and loving wife to my father. There’s no greater gift I could ever receive

What you have read is just a small sample of the POWER and FAITHFULNESS of God that are told through countless restored marriages! We continue to post new restored marriage, and restored relationship testimonies (children, siblings, parents, etc.) on our site each week.

Don't let ANYONE try to convince you that God cannot restore YOUR marriage! It is a lie. The TRUTH is that He is MORE THAN ABLE!!

Is Your Marriage... Crumbling? Hopeless? Or Ended in Divorce?

At Last There's Hope!

Have you been searching for marriage help online? It's not by chance, nor is it by coincidence, that you have this book in your hands. God is leading you to Restore Ministries that began by helping marriages that appear hopeless—like yours!

God has heard your cry for help in your marriage struggles and defeats. He predestined this Divine Appointment to give you the hope that you so desperately need right now!

We know and understand what you are going through since many of us in our restoration fellowship have a restored marriage and family! No matter what others have told you, your marriage is not hopeless! We know, after filling almost two books of restored marriage testimonies, that God is able to restore any marriage—especially yours!

“Behold, I am the LORD, the God of all flesh; is anything too difficult for Me?” (Jeremiah 32:27).

If you have been told that your marriage is hopeless or that without your husband's help your marriage cannot be restored! Each week we post a new Restored Relationship from one of our Restoration Fellowship Members that we post on our site.

“Ah Lord GOD! Behold, You have made the heavens and the earth by Your great power and by Your outstretched arm! Nothing is too difficult for You”! (Jeremiah 32:17).

If you have been crying out to God for more help, someone who understands, someone you can talk to, then we invite you to join our RMI

Restoration Fellowship. Since beginning this fellowship, we have seen more marriages restored on a regular basis than we ever thought possible!

Restoration Fellowship

Restoration is a “narrow road”—look around, most marriages end in divorce! But if your desire is for a restored marriage, then our Restoration Fellowship is designed especially for you!

Since beginning this fellowship, we have seen marriages restored more consistently than we ever thought possible.

Let us help you stay committed to “working with God” to restore your marriages. Restoration Fellowship can offer you the help, guidance, and support you will need to stay on the path that leads to victory—your marriage restored!

Let us assure you that all of our marriages were restored by GOD (through His Word) as we sought Him to lead us, teach us, guide us and transform us through His Holy Spirit. This, too, is all you need for your marriage to be restored.

However, God continues to lead people to our ministry and fellowship to gain the faith, support and help that so many say that they needed in their time of crisis.

“I was in mental chaos, and I did not know God. I was a Pharisee who thought I was the good guy and my husband was the bad guy. But I was very contentious and jealous and did not love God and I was full of prejudices and jealousies. Dear Jesus, I thank you and I praise you for my affliction and tribulation because you taught me how to love my enemies. You cared for me and my hurts and even the mistakes that I have caused myself by my own mind, words, and deeds. Thank you for teaching me to be your disciple and to believe only in you. You guide my steps and teach me. Praise your name.” Martha in Slovakia

“I was hurt by my EH terribly, my heart was broken and I was heavy in my soul, my spirit was totally crushed. Yet now I can thank God, for His great, and perfect love for me! I am so thankful for You, HH, and this ministry! I believe, Lord, You allowed me to do it my way for so long and walk in such pain for so long because, without it, I would never have fully grasped the truth and power of the revelation in this course to the point of full surrender and unwavering faith in Who You are and who I am! I love You more than ever and I cannot wait to walk this life with You every day.” Tonya who is married

“My life was a disaster when I came here, I was so devastated and I had no hope. My EH lived in another country and told me he wanted a divorce because I ruined his life and he hated me. He never wanted to return to me nor our baby. It was humiliating how many OW existed and finding the book I was able to see my errors and change. When I finished the book and started the courses, my EH came to our country to see us! Only God could do that. Now we are in the country where he lives for a time and I know that God, in His timing, will do finish what He began.” Mary in California
